Workshop based on the principles of Theory U

Theory U was created by Dr. Otto Scharmer of MIT Sloan School of Management to create an action research platform at the intersection of science, consciousness, and profound social and organizational change.

Over the past two decades, Theory U as a leadership and change management framework has been used by thousands of organisations and communities worldwide to address our most pressing global challenges: climate change, food systems, inequality, finance, healthcare and education as well as for transforming organizations, their context, leadership, culture and performance.
